Environmental Protection: The Case of Albania

The symposium, moderated by Assoc. Prof. Dr. Genti Kruja, Secretary General of the ICFTA, opened with the greeting of Mons. Gjergj Meta, President of the Interreligious Council of Albania.

The panel brought together representatives from all five religious communities in the country, members of the Women's Department and the Youth Department at the ICFTA, who shared the perspectives of the respective communities on environmental care and the role of religion in promoting climate responsibility. They were:

- Dr. Hysni Skura, representative of the Muslim Community of Albania,
- Ms. Sonila Rembeci, representative of the Autocephalous Orthodox Church of Albania,
- Ms. Ada Lushi, representative of the Catholic Church of Albania,
- Ms. Sheldiana Agaraj, representative of the Bektashi World Patriarchate,

- Ms. Lidia Sema, representative of the Evangelical Brotherhood of Albania.

Each speaker brought concrete examples of the commitment of the community they represent in protecting the environment and educating the younger generations in the spirit of respect for nature and peaceful coexistence.

At this symposium, academics and researchers from the above universities also discussed interfaith academic dialogue and exchanged experiences from different religious perspectives. This high-level meeting comes as part of joint efforts to integrate interfaith values and education for sustainability into educational policies and practices in Europe and beyond.

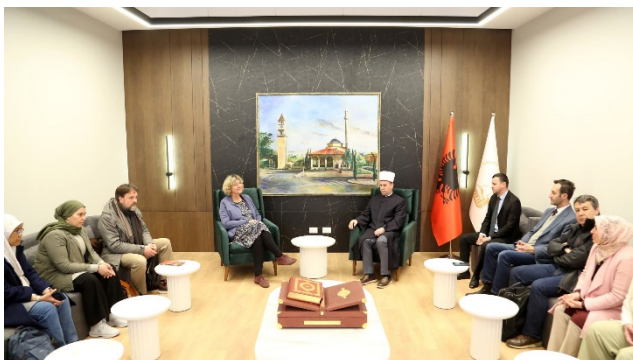

The day ended with a shared dinner and a late-night reflection session offered space for informal exchange and team bonding among participants.

The group started the intensive day with a had a visit at Muslim Community of Albania. The Chairman of the Muslim Community of Albania, Mr. Bujar Spahiu, acquainted the delegation with the role of the Muslim Community of Albania over a century for its contribution to social peace and the preservation of universal, Islamic and national values for a healthy society.

3rd Day_12 April 2025

The Erasmus team began their day with a departure to Shkodra. Upon their arrival, they were greeted with a Welcoming Ceremony, which was followed by formal opening remarks delivered by Prof. Dr. Tonin Gjuraj, the Rector of the University of Shkodra "Luigj Gurakuqi."

Next, the academic portion of the day commenced with an important open panel. This session focused on "Water resources of Shkodra Region and the challenges facing climate, human and natural hazards," with Dr. Skender Bruçaj chairing the discussion. The team listened to a detailed presentation by Ervis Kryembi PhD from the Department of Geography at the university.

Following the intellectual engagement, the team transitioned to exploring Shkodra's rich culture. They first visited the renowned Marubi National Museum of Photography. This was followed by a comprehensive Cultural Tour of Downtown Shkodra before they enjoyed lunch at the "Shpia e Gjyshit" Restaurant.

The

afternoon was dedicated to Shkodra's natural and historical landmarks. The team took a scenic Boat Trip to Shkodra Lake, followed by a visit to the historic Rozafa Castle. While at the castle, they received a fascinating Overview of the three rivers (Kir, Drin and Buna) and Shkodra Lake, highlighting the region's unique geography.

The day concluded back in Tirana, where the team conducted the Closing Remarks session and received an Epoka University Overview. This final academic segment was chaired by Prof. Dr. Elisabeth Naurath & Dr. Fatmir Shehu. Finally, the full day wrapped up with a well-deserved Dinner at Epoka University.

The Albania meeting showed the dynamic interaction between academia, religions, and civil society, demonstrating how education for peace and the environment can become a transformative force when based on dialogue and ethical responsibility.

The project reaffirmed its shared commitment to training educators who can connect faith, knowledge, and sustainability, helping to build a culture of peace and care for our common home.
